We must be doing something right!

“For the past year, Callbox has provided us with satisfactory lead generating and lead nurturing services.” They were instrumental in securing attendees for our events, scheduling client appointments and facilitating the sale of one of our benchtop systems. Their professionalism in conveying our product attributes and valued solutions to prospective customers has brought us results.

“We have built a solid working relationship over the past 2 years with Callbox.” In a highly competitive market, they have demonstrated why they are a reputable partner. They have shown their commitment to being flexible and adaptable to our specific requirements with providing required market data and required resources for our APAC client campaigns. The experienced team leaders have greatly assisted with working around our specific strategies and have always shown a positive attitude to go above and beyond.

Chak Ng

Chartered Energy has enjoyed a productive relationship with Callbox. They have done a great job of helping us target prospects within the markets we serve as well as qualify leads and set up appointments with decision-makers. Callbox has generally exceeded the number of leads per week we expected and provides a good value by enabling our inside sales team.

Ted Calvin

“I am very impressed with the business that Callbox has become.”

Marcus Lemonis, a billionaire entrepreneur in the US who builds up businesses, tells companies that the key to a successful business is to have the right people, a well-defined process, and a quality product. In the case of Callbox, you have very good people that can be successful because of a very well-designed process which results in a quality product for your clients.

I have found Callbox to be a relatively inexpensive way to generate leads. I have only been using them for a few months but so far I am getting reach into markets that I would not have the time to develop ourselves. Great for opening up a new vertical.

Joel Golub

My experience with Callbox was very positive. The team that they put together knew our business and they were relentless in the pursuit of leads. I highly recommend them.

Karl Pennington

“I will definitely consider coming back and sign up again.”

You guys did a wonderful job and we need to focus on the leads you’ve given us. I will re-evaluate this February but I will definitely consider coming back and sign up again.

“Callbox is an amazing company”

Great team and service from Callbox. Could not ask for a better lead in Carmi Chavez. They are getting the job done. One call at a time.
